The NSW AECG Inc. would like to Acknowledge the traditional custodians of the land on which we work, and pay our respect to Elders past and present.

President's Message

Welcome to another edition of the NSW AECG newsletter, Pemulwuy. As always, the NSW AECG has been busy conducting professional learning, running STEM camps, advocating for our mob, building resources and supporting language activities.

The NSW AECG has also been conducting workshops with members of the Junior AECG to include in our submission to the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child. It never ceases to amaze me, the vast amount of knowledge our young people which I sometimes think our education systems forget. Keep a lookout for our submission and the points our young people make. I think it is something we all can learn from.

In the meantime, enjoy reading this edition of the Pemulwuy. As always, it only presents a snapshot of the myriad of things that happen across our State from the tireless work of our members and supporters of Aboriginal Education.

Enjoy the read!!

Pemulwuy

Pronounced: "Pem-ool-we"

The newsletter has been called Pemulwuy in honour of one of the first Aboriginal people known to have resisted the invasion of Australia.

Pemulwuy and his son, Tedbury, were both outlawed while leading resistance to the invasion for 20 years after 1788. They led a form of guerilla warfare right around the area of modern Sydney and were perhaps the first Aboriginal people to resist attacks on their culture and identity.

WARRANT OFFICER LEN WATERS - AUSTRALIA REMEMBERS

Len Waters or going by his full name Leonard Victor Waters was a WW2 Aboriginal serviceman. He was the first Aboriginal Australian military aviator, and the only one to serve as a fighter pilot in the Royal Australian Air Force during World War II. He was born on Euraba Mission near Boomi in north western NSW on 24 June 1924 and passed away at Cunnamulla on 24 August 1993.

He flew 95 operational sorties with 78 Squadron from 1943 – 1945, operating from Noemfoor, Morotai and Tarakan in the area of Papua New Guinea. This squadron flew the famous Australian designed fighter plane, the Kittyhawk.

When Len Waters joined the RAAF on 24 August 1942 he was initially trained as a flight mechanic. Later he was accepted for pilot training and graduated as a Sergeant pilot from 5 Service Flying Training School at Uranquinty NSW. His training continued at 2 Operational Training Unit (2OTU), Mildura, Vic, from where he was posted to 78 Squadron on 14 November 1944. The early operations of this squadron fought Australia's Battle of Battle fighting off a determined Japanese thrust to take Port Moresby in their vastly superior plane the Mitsubishi Zero.

"He was accepted as an equal because he worked so hard and he was admired so much by his fellow comrades."

GARDEN-BASED LEARNING AT SIR ERIC WOODWARD SCHOOL (SEWS)

Garden-based learning has arrived at SEWS! A range of numeracy outcomes will be achieved through incorporating garden-based learning (GBL) activities into our students' learning programs. These strategies are included within the SEWS 2018 – 2020 school plan.

Class 1 are mixing in some fresh soil before planting out some vegies

Many sensory experiences to engage with in a GBL learning environment positively influence wellbeing, and ultimately happiness. GBL provides a context for students to experience achievement, increase self-esteem, increase motivation and continue to engage in learning activities. This further provides opportunities to develop specific numeracy skills and knowledge. Our students may be involved in a range of activities such as counting seeds, measuring distances between plants, indicating the depth of a hole for planting, measuring height of plants, taking data on growth of plants over time, and estimating time. There are obvious commonalities and overlaps with targeted outcomes in the English, Science and Geography syllabuses as well. Therefore, the additional benefits of project-based learning pedagogy is likely down the track.

Bunnings Belrose have supported SEWS on our GBL journey by providing their expertise, time and resources to modify our GBL area. It will take some time to make these areas accessible and engaging for all our students, but we are definitely underway.

Some of our students have participated in planting activities already. The engagement and happiness of the students is testament that students will experience achievement through a GBL framework. A big thank you to Bunnings Belrose for their continued support.

SEWS is also embarking on a related project to show our appreciation and respect to the original custodians of the land on which our school now stands. We are designing and planting a sensory garden area with a unique flavour. Specifically, we are curating a sensory garden comprised of the native plants that originally grew in this area that have been identified as edible plants by the Guringai People. We are fortunate to have the support of Clarence Bruinsma (Aboriginal Education and Engagement Advisor) to share local knowledge with us and ensure that we undertake this project with respect to the original custodians of this land.

We are thankful to have the guidance of local Guringai Elder Uncle Dennis Foley in naming this sensory garden. We have embraced his suggestion to name our sensory garden "Cab-ra-nanga" which translates to "resting the mind". We look forward to developing this area through continued consultation. We are at the start of another positive journey that is strongly linked with our GBL activities. This area now display the Aboriginal flag to demonstrate our commitment to continued appreciation and respect to Aboriginal People. Again, thank you to Bunnings Belrose for providing their expertise and resources to get this project underway.

We look forward to sharing more of our students' GBL achievements for years to come.

KIDS MATTER at Tacoma Public School

Tacoma Public School celebrated our annual Bidhal Wadhay Badhang (celebrate happy spirits).

The day also celebrated the opening of our new garden – Ngara Barayi (listen to earth)

Our garden is full of colour, complete with a yarning circle for outdoor learning, the rainbow walk (ganang yana) which is also a sensory path, plants from the rainforest, the desert succulents, the beach and lots of bushtucker.

There is a very special place, with a glittery purple seat, to sit and remember Sana, with frangipani's and lots of love. When you walk by there, quietly stop and spend some time thinking of her and remembering her wadhay badhang (happy spirit).

All our signage incorporated Darkinyung language and was from the A-M-A-Z-I-N-G Ian Bonnar from Lost Art Signs.

The garden incorporates colours to fill our senses, and to reflect and enjoy our surroundings:

PURPLE is spiritual and encourages deep thinking.

BLUE soothes us gives us serenity and keeps us calm.

GREEN gives us balance, harmony & peace.

PINK gives us tranquillity, warmth and love.

YELLOW gives us emotional strength and is a strong colour that lifts our spirits and self-esteem.

Our garden is a GREAT place to be!

Remember to tread lightly on the earth... The earth has music for those that listen.

HSC MINIMUM STANDARD OF LITERACY AND NUMERACY

WHAT'S CHANGED?

From this year, Year 9 NAPLAN tests will no longer be used as an early way for students to demonstrate the HSC minimum standard.

This change has been made to ensure NAPLAN remains focussed on its diagnostic purpose and to reduce unnecessary stress on young people.

However, if your child achieved Band 8s or above in a 2017 Year 9 NAPLAN test they are recognised as having met the HSC minimum standard in that particular area and will not need to sit the corresponding online test.

Meeting the HSC minimum standard will mean that your child has the literacy (English) and numeracy (Maths) skills essential for success in learning and life after school.

THE ONLINE TESTS

Most students will show they have met the HSC minimum standard by passing minimum standard online tests. Students will have two opportunities a year, from Year 10 until a few years after Year 12, to pass each online test.

There are three 45-minute online tests:

- a multiple choice reading test
- a multiple choice numeracy test
- a short writing test based on a choice between a visual or written prompt.

The online test dates (school days only) for 2018 are:

- Term 1: 19 February to 23 March 2018
- Term 2: 21 May to 22 June 2018
- Term 3: 13 August to 14 September 2018
- Term 4: 5 November to 7 December 2018.

WHAT TO EXPECT?

To help your child understand what to expect in the online tests, they are encouraged to visit educationstandards.nesa.nsw.edu.au/HSCminimumstandard to:

- try demonstration questions to get a feel for the test format
- view sample test questions and answers online.

Your child's school may also organise short practice tests.

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Students are encouraged to talk to their teachers to determine whether they are eligible for provisions. A Disability Provisions, Exemptions and Appeals policy, which contains further information, is available on the NESA website.

Some students with disabilities will be eligible for extra provisions for the minimum standard online tests, or an exemption from the HSC minimum standard requirement. Find out more: <http://educationstandards.nsw.edu.au/HSCminimumstandard>

WHAT CAN A PARENT OR CARER DO?

Parents or carers can be aware of the new requirements and how they can help their child succeed.

If you think your child needs additional support you can:

- talk to and meet with your child's teacher(s), subject coordinator(s) and/or Aboriginal education staff to discuss strategies at school and home
- make sure that literacy and numeracy support are included in your child's Personalised Learning Plans (PLPs)
- contact an Aboriginal Education consultant in your child's school system for suggestions
- speak to your local Aboriginal Education Consultative Group (AECG)
- ask school representatives or volunteer organisations about availability of tutoring or extra-curricular school or community-based programs in literacy and numeracy.

Find your local AECG by searching at <https://www.aecg.nsw.edu.au/aecg-regions/>

INDIGENOUS CRICKET TEAMS RETURNING TO THE UK AFTER 150 YEARS

Source: <http://www.indigenous.gov.au/news-and-media/stories/indigenous-cricket-teams-returning-uk-after-150-years>

The first Australian sporting team to tour internationally was a men's Aboriginal cricket team made up of 13 players.

To commemorate that 1868 tour of the UK, Cricket Australia is sending two cricket squads, women's and men's, to the UK for the first 2 weeks of June. Both will play under the banner of the '2018 Aboriginal XI.'

Ashleigh Gardner and Dan Christian will lead the respective sides against several of the same counties as the original 1868 tour. The schedule includes matches against Surrey, Sussex, Derbyshire, Nottinghamshire and the Marylebone Cricket Club (MCC).

'Being able to represent my culture is really special and all the girls are really excited to do that too,' Ashleigh said.

'They all understand this is a big moment in their careers and for me to be able to captain a team that is inexperienced in terms of international tours but one that is ready for that competition is a big moment in my career as well.'

Venues used for fixtures against Surrey, Sussex and Derbyshire will be the same as those used in 1868 including a double-header at The Oval.

In 2018, the 13 male players travelling will proudly represent one of the pioneer players, by displaying their name on the back of their uniform. The female squad will wear their own names on their back, being pioneers as the first female Indigenous team to tour the UK.

The team uniforms incorporate the commemorative artwork titled 'Walkabout Wickets' which tells the story of both the 1866 Boxing Day match and the 1868 tour. It was designed by Auntie Fiona Clarke who is the great-great-granddaughter of Grongarrong (Mosquito), one of the stars of the 1868 team.

In addition to the matches, players will engage in activities pre-tour and in the UK to further connect with the significance of the 1868 events as they take over the reigns as story tellers to future generations of Indigenous cricketers.

Congratulations to all the cricketers selected to take part in the tour!
